Serial arsonist spreads flames, fear in Allston

Firefighters busy dousing car fires in Allston ● Investigators seek help finding starter of suspicious fires ● Residents fearful of leaving cars out

NICOLAUS CZARNECKI/METRO

▶ Charred remains were all several car owners had left after a serial arsonist struck in Allston again this weekend.

A serial arsonist who is torching cars in an Allston neighborhood has residents on edge about their vehicles and potentially their safety.

"It's concerning. What else is this guy capable of? It's crazy," said Julia Hershonik, 21, a resident of Pratt Street.

Firefighters rushed to Pratt Street just before 8 a.m. Saturday for a report of cars on fire behind a home. As they were fighting that fire, another car fire was reported a few houses away. Moments later, a fourth car was seen on fire on Ashford Street, which runs parallel to Pratt Street.

The four cars torched Saturday increased the total to eight cars that have been set ablaze in the neighborhood in the past six weeks, fire officials said.

"It's concerning. What else is this guy capable of? It's crazy."
JULIA HERSHONIK, 21, A RESIDENT OF PRATT STREET

One of the cars set on fire Saturday belonged to 21-year-old Jeff Intinarelli.

He was sleeping Saturday morning when a neighbor alerted him that his Chevrolet Malibu was on fire. He ran outside and saw flames coming from his car.

"The guy's just sick," said Intinarelli, who plans to get a new car. "We just have to keep our eyes peeled. He's taking pleasure [in it]."

Fire officials and police are investigating, but residents and visitors to the neighborhood aren't taking chances.

"I visit here every week," said Jesse Humphrey, 24, of Brighton, while sitting on a porch with some friends on Pratt Street yesterday. "This makes me not want to drive here."

Assistance seeking arsonist:

- Police detectives and fire investigators are asking for the public's help locating a person responsible for the recent string of suspicious fires.
- Witnesses told investigators they saw a person jump a fence after Saturday's fire, but they were not able to provide a detailed description of the person.
- Investigators are not revealing how the fires are set.
- Officials ask anyone in the neighborhood who observes something or has information to call 617-343-3324 or 617-343-2202.

- Underground mobile service on track for completion
- Cell service accessible on more T trains by year's end

Boston isn't far behind New York City in offering underground cell phone services to more transit riders.

According to an MBTA spokesman, InSite Wireless, the contractor slated to let T-goers gab while beneath the streets, is on schedule to complete underground cell tower installations for Blue and Green Line trains by the end of this year.

That means riders are only four months from being able to call their friends if a Green Line train breaks down in a tunnel.

PDAs and smartphone Web surfing will also be easily accessible.

According to the company's website, InSite's "DAS" technology "provides continuous service in stations and trains, allowing riders whose service providers connect to the antenna system to text, make phone calls, check e-mail and surf the Web."

After InSite installs the necessary infrastructure, coverage carriers can sign up to get on the system, said an MBTA official.

In March of last year, then-MBTA General Manager Rich Davey introduced similar services on the Orange Line, providing cell accessibility along the entire underground corridor.

The mandate focused on improving safety and customer service.

What's next?

InSite will complete the infrastructure work at the remaining underground stations and tunnels from Kendall to Alewife next year, according to T spokesman Joe Pesaturo.

Protesters plan 'Occupy Boston'

Stemming from protests on Wall Street, Boston begins its movement ◐ Protesters start recruiting through social media ◐ Fight for a fair financial system is goal

Protests against Wall Street have spread like wildfire nationwide — and similar rallies could come to Boston by next week, according to 23-year-old Nelson Terry.

On his way to New York City last week to join protesters, Terry created a Twitter account with hopes that supporters in the Hub would sign on and fight the financial system in his hometown.

"Whether it's a series of marches or occupations, that remains to be seen," said Terry, who was nearly arrested Saturday as he led a group through the streets of New York, "taking action against greed and corruption."

"Likes" on Occupy Boston's Facebook page with comments stacking up as Occupy Wall Street goes into its second week of rallying.

The rallies there have been an effort to "criticize a financial system that … unfairly benefits corporations and the rich," according to the group's website.

While protests in New York have turned violent, Nelson said demonstrators are trying to remain peaceful, and he hopes to bring peace to Boston next week.

"I have no fear of bringing it back to our city," said Terry, who also started a Facebook page called Occupy Boston. "The goal is to change the system and make it a real Democracy."

30 Million men suffer performance issues. #1 reason is that they are over 50!

Thailand's "9 Inch" Root Holds Secret to Extended Male Performance!

Oregon man credited with bringing "oddly-shaped root" to U.S. market; improves blood flow, prostate function and ignites stamina!

Rod Tallman, a retired Oregon businessman was searching for his own "sexual fountain of youth" when he literally stumbled over a 5,000 year old Asian root that is proving to be the solution to male performance issues. He now leads a team of researchers in bringing this solution to the U.S.

Ever wonder why some men seem to be serving up a satisfying sex life while you are left hungry for more? When stress levels increase, certain nutrients become imbalanced, causing a premature decline in libido, testosterone levels and reduced circulation; all negatively affecting his ability to maintain physical performance levels. Not only do intimate encounters become less frequent, they become less pleasurable too!

" I was retired and finally had the time to enjoy myself but my body was holding me back. I truly believe that sex should be as satisfying today as it was when you first started having it. Sex is a part of being healthy. It's only natural to want to have more of it and for it to be satisfying!" says Tallman.

Rod is part of a group of "everyday guys" who used their retirement funds to invest in the research of a rare combination of herbs from the far East.

Today they are receiving national acclaim for the all natural formula called 112 Degrees™, specifically designed to target the maturing man's overall energy, interest and physical performance by improving and optimizing total body circulation and prostate function.

Thailand's Gift to Men

112 Degrees™ contains top-quality, all-natural ingredients such as Tribulus Terrestris, L-Tyrosine, Pueraria, and Acai, formulated to improve male sexual health and performance, as well as support overall health and vitality. However, one ingredient in the formula can't help but stand-up in the group.

"My husband started taking 112 Degrees™ because he was experiencing performance irregularities. After taking 112 Degrees™, he has no problems." Christy, AZ

Proof of Performance

Health professionals have noted that the "oddly-shaped root" may produce benefits such as a significant increase in the weight of the testes, higher sperm counts and a greater release of male sex hormones, which explains the plant's reputation for increasing men's sexuality. This translates into an overall better experience.

"For the last four years I have had a significant amount of trouble with frequency of urination. I've seen a significant improvement with 112 Degrees™." Jude, OR

Breakthrough Combination

112 Degrees™ users have also noted changes that include increased morning arousals, more intense release, improved urination, including ease of going and urine flow, and even getting up less during the night to urinate. Users can expect to experience improved blood flow, better prostate function and a dramatic increase in stamina.

According to a 2003 article in the Asian Journal Andrology the preparations of Butea are for male erectile dysfunction. It is affectionately referred to as herbal Viagra.

"Early morning erections have returned. Sustained erections during intercourse. I am satisfied so far." John, NY

Try A Bottle Free

If you're a man 45 years or older, generally healthy, who has noticed a decline in libido, physical ability or urinary function, then you may be suffering from reduced circulation and unhealthy prostate function and you can benefit from a free 30-day supply of 112 Degrees™. This non-prescription strength formula can help with sexual health and overall performance without side effects. LIFE SPAN Labs is sending out the first bottle free as part of a special promotion.

Contraception celebration: A history of sex

People have been using birth control since very early days of civilization But we've come a long way, baby

RAVEENDRAN/AFP/GETTY IMAGES

Condoms are one popular contraceptive, but historically people have used many others.

Happy World Contraception Day! In honor of this annual public health campaign, Metro has commissioned Professor Robert Jutte — chief historian of medicine at Stuttgart's Robert Bosch Foundation and author of the book "Contraception: A History" — to help put modern birth control into a historical context.

ANTHONY JOHNSTON
letters@metro.us
METRO WORLD NEWS

Cold-blooded

In ancient Egypt, crocodile dung was inserted into the vagina, Jutte explains.

"Some of the ingredients change the pH value in the vagina to create a bad environment for the sperm."

'Nonsense' cures

Believe it or not, people did wear amulets like they do talismans as a means of contraception.

"These amulets contained ingredients we would describe as complete nonsense. One example: Take the seeds from a henbane plant, mix them with milk from a she-ass, then wrap in the skin of a hare."

Old wives' tales

"I once read in a British opinion poll that some women thought that by simply closing your eyes you can avoid conception."

"Another old lady recipe was washing after intercourse. This method doesn't really work; bidets are now for personal hygiene, but they were originally used as a contraceptive."

Condom cons

The first undisputed description of the condom — by 16th-century Italian physician Gabriele Falloppio — said it was made of cloth.

And you thought rug burn on the knees hurt.

Oldie but goodie

"Coitus interruptus" — the withdrawal method — is the oldest contraceptive at more than 10,000-years old, according to Jutte, and there's a reason for that.

"It still works — if you are careful, that is; it's very easy to use, you don't need a lot of instructions. It's ready, so to speak, in the heat of the affair."

Hikers speak after return to US, call case 'total sham'

Say they spent most of their time in isolation, held as hostages 'Convicted ... because we are American'

Two Americans convicted in Iran of spying and jailed mainly in isolation for more than two years arrived in New York yesterday, saying they were innocent and had been held hostage simply because of their nationality.

Josh Fattal and Shane Bauer — who were arrested with their friend Sarah Shourd while hiking along the Iraq-Iran border in July 2009 — were freed Wednesday after Oman paid $1 million bail. Shourd was released on $500,000 bail a year ago.

Fattal and Bauer were sentenced to eight years in prison last month after a trial held behind closed doors. Washington denied that the group were spies.

Days Fattal and Bauer spent in jail, with only 15 minutes of phone calls with their families and one short visit from their mothers.

Bauer and Fattal said the case against them had been a "total sham" and made up of "ridiculous lies that depicted us as being involved in an elaborate American-Israeli conspiracy to undermine Iran."

"The only explanation for our prolonged detention is the 32 years of mutual hostility between America and Iran," Bauer said. "We were convicted of espionage because we are American. It's that simple. No evidence was ever presented against us."

"Sarah, Josh and I have experienced a taste of the Iranian regime's brutality. We have been held in almost total isolation from the world and everything we love, stripped of our rights and freedom," said Bauer. REUTERS

JEDDAH, SAUDI ARABIA. Saudi Arabia's king announced yesterday women would be given the right to vote and stand in elections, a bold shift in the ultra-conservative absolute monarchy as pressure for social and democratic reform sweeps the Middle East.

It was by far the biggest change in Saudi Arabia's tightly-controlled society yet ordered by the 88-year-old Abdullah bin Abdulaziz al-Saud, who took power six years ago with a reformer's reputation but has ruled as a cautious conservative. REUTERS

Bombing missions pound Gaddafi's hometown

SIRTE. NATO bombing raids hammered the Libyan city of Sirte yesterday to clear the way for fighters with the Libyan interim government who are trying to capture Muammar Gaddafi's hometown.

But Gaddafi loyalists showed they were still a threat by attacking the desert oasis town of Ghadames, on the border with Algeria. The interim government said the attacks had been repulsed but some reports said fighting was still going on.

Earlier this weekend, the forces of the National Transitional Council had pushed to within a few hundred metres of the centre of Sirte — one of the last bastions of pro-Gaddafi resistance in Libya — but later drew back to let the NATO jets do their work. REUTERS

Metro's Dorothy Robinson shares her take on the world of gossip @dorothyatmetro dorothy.robinson@metro.us

Corey Feldman could use a better-paying job

Although you and I were never famous teen heartthrobs — nor did we ever experience the heady high that must have come from voicing Donatello in the movie version of "Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles" — our normal existence might mean we're currently doing better financially than Corey Feldman.

Feldman, 40 is being sued by his Playboy model ex-wife, Susannah "Susie" Feldman, for child support for their 7-year-old son, reports TMZ.com. She's asking for $307 a month from the former star, as well as for Feldman to provide health insurance and pay half their son's medical expenses. I know what you might be thinking — $307 a month?

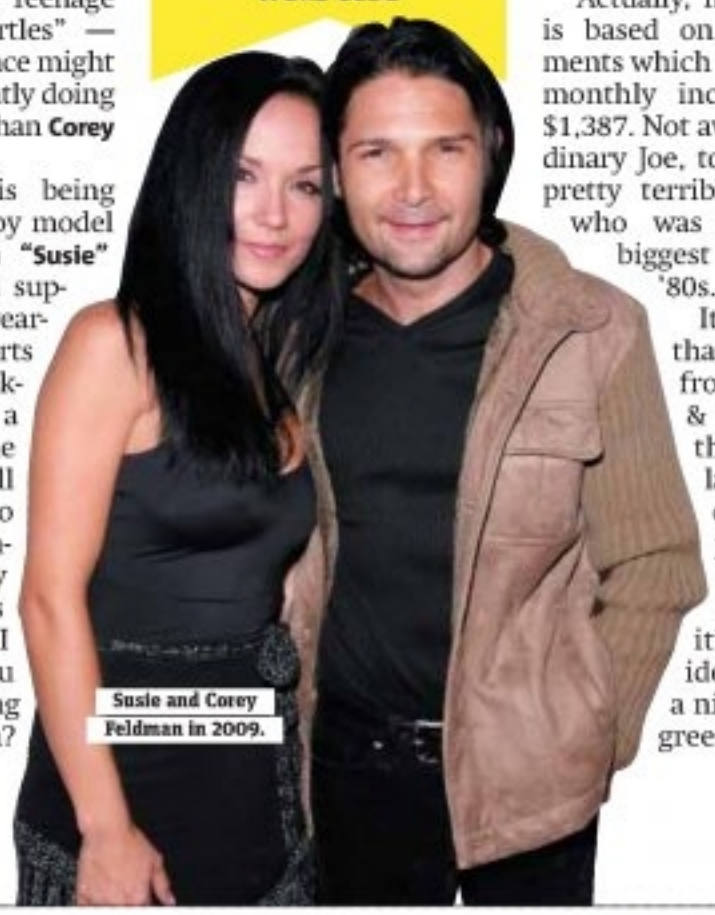
DOROTHY ROBINSON'S WORD BLOG



Susie and Corey Feldman in 2009.

Isn't that a bit low for a man who famously donned a pair of Ray-Bans in the classic 1988 film, "License to Drive"? Shouldn't she be asking for more?

Actually, no. The figure is based on court documents which list Feldman's monthly income as just $1,387. Not awful for an ordinary Joe, to be sure, but pretty terrible for a guy who was one of the biggest stars of the '80s.

It is my hope that the mothers from "Toddlers & Tiaras" read this today. As ladies, instead of pushing your kid to be a child star, maybe it's a better idea to suggest a nice college degree instead?

Bradley Cooper has a type: Famous

Bradley Cooper as a long list of A-list ex-girlfriends, and there's a reason for that. Dating other famous people is just "easier," Cooper explains to Heat magazine. "Connection and chemistry are amazing things, and if the other person is used to being in the media, it makes things easier," he says.

Easier, sure. But they're also way hotter and richer than us "normals." Plus, they probably live in apartments with more than one bedroom and can afford premium cable.

Winslet's new boyfriend

ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

Kate Winslet is reportedly dating Richard Branson's nephew, Ned Rocknroll, and the pair are currently vacationing in the English countryside, according to Us Weekly. "Ned is really happy with Kate," the source says, adding that Ned, who is only two years younger than Winslet, feels the actress is "mature and has it all together. [Ned] feels he can learn so much from her. It's sexy — a boy toy situation!"

Eh. Two years younger does not make a "boy toy situation," anonymous source.

But it is odd he changed his name to "Rocknroll." Was "Ineed-direction" already taken?

Talking points

Bieber's smooth moves

Justin Bieber knows how to wow a lady. After catching a concert by Demi Lovato with girlfriend Selena Gomez at L.A.'s Nokia Theater, the Canadian pop star brought Gomez next door to the Staples Center, where they watched "Titanic" — with the whole arena to themselves, according to People magazine. But renting the place out for the night didn't cost Bieber a dime, as the Staples Center's managers were grateful to Bieber for previously selling out the venue three times. "Romance isn't dead," the singer posted to Twitter the day of the date. "Treat your lady right, fellas."

Lautner single yet again

Taylor Lautner and "Abduction" co-star Lily Collins reportedly broke up just before their film's premiere last week, according to Us Weekly. "It was a clean break that Taylor initiated," a source says, adding that Lautner "wants to be single for a while." Clean as the break may have been, it didn't make for a smooth premiere party. "At the 'Abduction' party, it was awkward," the source says.

PETA is mad at Prince William

Prince Harry turned 27 last week and reportedly celebrated by going hunting with his older brother Prince William, who gave Harry 250 pheasants, ducks and partridges for the trip, according to Hollyscoop. Naturally, PETA wasn't too thrilled with the celebration. "We understand that Prince William has given a gift of 'game birds' to Prince Harry for his birthday," PETA president Ingrid Newkirk says in a letter to William's wife, Kate Middleton. "There is no honor in buying birds and reducing them, as if they were clay pigeons, to shooting targets. Those who aren't killed outright are often dispatched by having their necks wrung, which does not cause an instant or painless death."

3-D 'Lion King' takes second box office crown

▶ You raise me up!

Walt Disney Co.'s "The Lion King" in 3-D ruled the movie box office for the second straight weekend, beating baseball drama "Moneyball" and family film "Dolphin Tale."

The re-release of 1994 animated classic "The Lion King" took in an estimated $22.1 million over three days at U.S. and Canadian theaters, Disney said on Sunday.

"Moneyball," starring Brad Pitt, finished second with $20.6 million and "Dolphin Tale" came in third with $20.3 million, according to studio estimates compiled by Reuters.

Columbia Pictures, a unit of Sony Corp, released "Moneyball." "Dolphin Tale" was released by Warner Bros, a unit of Time Warner Inc.

'Hey, I'm Jonah. I'm in this movie. I'd like to do more of this and I hope you accept me.'

Hill talks about his dramatic turn in 'Moneyball' — and his dramatic weight loss He regrets that the second story is not that interesting

Jonah Hill is understandably a little hoarse when we meet up with him at the Four Seasons Hotel in Boston. The night before, he had been partying with the staff of the Harvard Lampoon. "Oh my gosh, one of the best nights of my entire life," he says. "It was very inspirational, because a lot of the great comedy writers of our time and before passed through there and were a part of that organization."

These days, Hill is thriving. The recently slimmed-down actor is starring in his first dramatic role, playing opposite Brad Pitt in the film adaptation of Michael Lewis' 2003 book, "Moneyball."

I know you must be sick of talking about your weight, but could you give us a CliffsNotes version?

I completely understand people's interest in it. I went to a nutritionist. I wanted to be healthier. It's really as simple as that. It's not that talking about it bothers me; it's just how uninteresting my answers are.

MELINDA SUE GORDON

▶ Jonah Hill in heavier times on the set of "Moneyball."

Q&A

At the Video Music Awards last month, you made a crack that people keep saying, "Now that you've lost weight, you're probably not funny anymore." Then you do a dramatic film!

▶ To me, it's about making good movies. I'm lucky enough to spend my life doing this, and I'd like to do it when I'm an old man. I'd like to have a few DVDs — or whatever space technology they have — to show to my grandkids.

At what point did you know you wanted to try a drama?

I feel very similar right now at this moment in my career to how I did when "Superbad" was coming out, because "Superbad" was my introduction to people. ... So now I feel the same way because I'm reintroducing myself by saying "Hey, I'm Jonah and I'm in this different kind of movie that you're definitely not used to seeing me in, a different kind of performance. And I'd like to do more of this and I hope you accept me."

Opening the doors to higher education

College can provide upward mobility, but access is crucial ◆ Berkeley's Michael Hout on his findings

GETTY IMAGES

▶ "Social and Economic Returns to College Education in the United States" will appear in the 2012 Annual Review of Sociology. A preliminary version is available at www.popcenter.berkeley.edu.

Michael Hout's latest work for the Annual Review of Sociology will be released in 2012, but he's making no secret of his findings thus far: Participation in higher education does indeed "cause good things to happen" for disadvantaged populations. But, unfortunately, that still creates winners and losers in the United States.

"College education in particular pays off for those that get it. On the one hand, it provides a channel of opportunity for some people, especially those from lower-class backgrounds," says Hout. "But for those that are left out, it actually contributes to American inequality because the wage gap between college and high school educated people is so great in this country."

For Hout and his peers, there are severe hardships ahead for the U.S. economy if investment in disadvantaged students does not increase substantially. "In the 1970s, the U.S. was in a league of its own in terms of access to college. Most countries witnessed the success we had in transforming into a post-industrial, information-based economy and, now, have emulated it. We haven't kept pace."

bruce.walsh@metro.us

Generational opportunity gap

Hout didn't have to look very far for evidence that access to higher ed is becoming more difficult: "Berkeley in the 1970s took 70 percent of its applicants. Now they take 7 percent. Howard [University] used to take half. Now they take 8 percent. And it's not just at elite schools. Many of [what used to be open admission] schools take about 70 percent. So they're where Berkley was in the 1970s."

Working from home can be more than a fantasy

There are a lot of opportunities out there, but you need to be prepared to land a successful gig

When two of Noelle Frieson's stay-at-home-mom friends were having trouble finding flexible employment, she knew she had found her next gig. Together, the three launched the first JobProsper event, a career fair focusing on work-from-home as well as part-time opportunities.

Now a recurring expo that attracts thousands of attendees as well as an online resource site, JobProsper's success speaks to the number of people interested in less rigid employment and the number of companies offering it now that the Web has made working remotely easier. With so many opportunities out there, Frieson recommends having a solid plan before jumping in and beginning to look for a job.

"First, decide what kind of job you want to do, and what you're really good at," she says. "If you narrow down what you're looking for, it'll make it easier."

Additionally, you'll need to have your convenient new office set up — including childcare plans for any little ones that may be on the premises.

"We tell people that they have to have their home office ready," she says. "All of these companies are going to require that you have a computer, high-speed Internet and a landline."

MONICA WEYMOUTH
monica.weymouth@metro.us

Do your research

Work-from-home listings are full of scams, most of which are easy to spot if you know the industry. On Frieson's red-flag list: Companies that require money to get started, those that have no telephone number or physical address listed and positions that don't require an interview. Ultimately, she says, "You have to really understand what you're getting paid to do and how you're getting paid to do it."

Teaching with Emotional Intelligence
A step by step guide for higher and further education professionals
Alan Mortiboys

Emotional intelligence enters the classroom

Over the last nine years, U.K.-based author Alan Mortiboys has been developing a canon of exercises to help teachers better understand their own emotions on the job and, just as importantly, the emotions of their students. Mortiboys' seminal 2005 work, "Teaching With Emotional Intelligence," is intended for college level instructors. It's being re-released this week with additional material devoted to online learning situations.

"Emotional intelligence" is a term that was popularized by Daniel Goleman's book, "Emotional Intelligence: Why It Can Matter More Than IQ." Is that what started you off in your work?

Yes, that's how I first came to the term. But my thinking on the subject started back when I did a lot of teacher observations. Often, I would see people who appeared to know everything about their subject, and had a whole range of technical skills, but there was something missing. They weren't paying attention to the emotional dimension of teaching. For me, emotions were so important to learning — and the lecturer had a huge role to play in influencing feelings in the learner.

What's the most common mistake teachers make when it comes to setting an emotional tone?

It's small but important. They don't take the opportunity to address individuals by name, so they don't acknowledge the individual learner. Second, they don't address the potential for fear in a learning situation. Classrooms can produce a lot of anxiety. Just taking the time to be clear about the structure and expectations can alleviate much of that.

So many educational experiences involve shame — from spelling bees to missing homework assignments. Can shame ever be a positive motivator?

Personally, I would say no. I occasionally meet people who say they were humiliated at school, and it changed their attitude for the better. But the people who tell me this are the ones who succeeded, because I work with lecturers. I don't meet the ones that dropped out and failed to learn.

All extremes are dangerous

RE: "LIBERALS IGNORE THREAT OF ISLAM": You seem to enjoy throwing the word "liberal" around like a slur; but yes, liberals are against radical Islam. They're against radical anything — against the radical Christianity of people like Sarah Palin. In some parts of the world, women are slaves to their husbands and fathers, yet conservatives waste their time crying about homosexuality. They need to stop fussing about Leviticus and get a little better at "loving thy neighbor."
JOHN DAVIDSON, BOSTON

Read a book; it's all there

RE: "MONEY IS THE ONE TRUE GOD": Nothing pains me more than the continued erroneous information to spin my beleaguered religion in a bad light. Before Mohammed, the Middle East was mostly polytheists. A large amount of Muslims, including my ancestors, were converted along the ancient sea trade route where Arab merchants helped convert people in countries such as Bangladesh, Malaysia and Indonesia without a single sword or force of any kind. This represents a vast amount of Muslim people today. These merchants' actions are similar to what Christian missionaries have done throughout the world. These are historical facts.
RAKIB AZAD, VIA E-MAIL

Rome watched bad sitcoms

I just had the displeasure of watching NBC's "Whitney." They say that the Roman's downfall paralleled the debauchery of their lifestyle. I would say that sponsors of this show are adding to the resolve of Muslim extremists! Programs like this must inspire such radicals to feel morally justified in assisting the extinction of our present society.
JOSEPH DUPONT, VIA E-MAIL

False origins of a fake party

The Tea Party and other conservatives have had their way for the majority of the past 30 years, and now that we are on the very edge of ruin they want to change history. Teabaggers co-opted their name from a great American moment when we first stood against tyranny; now they spread lies as "alternative history" such as Paul Revere's ride was also about gun rights. They might now have us go to war with the moon, no one could say for sure. We need to throw all politicians from power. DOUG BROWN, QUINCY

Horoscope

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. If you are too indecisive, you might let a friend, associate or family member take it upon himself or herself to make a big decision for you.
♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. A big, urgent responsibility that you've been artfully dodging in hopes that someone else would do it is likely to be dumped in your lap.
♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. If you refuse to go along with the majority, you are likely to create a lot of unnecessary dissension among your peers. Smile and be a part of things instead of being obstinate.
♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. At work you are more likely to be tripped up by your own poor choices than you would be by any opposition. Subdue all erratic inclinations and eschew carelessness.
♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. A lot of time and effort on your part could be wasted if your strategies are poorly planned or executed. It is important to establish a game plan that you know will work.
♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. If the money isn't already in your bank account, don't think you can pay for something pricey without causing some big problems.
♈ Aries March 21-April 19. Do not assume to know what your mate would want when it comes to selecting something you both would use.
♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. You should take extra precaution when working with tools or materials that you're unfamiliar with. In fact, double-check the instructions before you embark on your work.
♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. A situation that has pronounced elements of possible failure attached to it should be checked very thoroughly before you get involved. It could create some serious problems.
♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. If you are considering refurbishment for your home or office, study your plan before drastically changing anything. Impulsive action might not wear too well.
♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Be extremely selective about who you go to for advice. If you check with someone who knows less than you do, you are likely to compound your confusion.
♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Before making a large purchase, analyze your financial position very carefully to make sure it has the necessary elasticity to handle the financial stretching. Subdue any impulsive spending.

Brady throws four INTs as Buffalo steals a win at home New England can't hold its early 21-0 lead

No, these are not the same old Bills.

Going into yesterday, Buffalo had lost 15 straight to the Patriots. Now that streak — along with some measure of confidence in New England's ability to close — is history.

Rian Lindell hit a 28-yard field goal as time expired, giving the Bills a stunning 34-31 win and spoiling record-setting days by Tom Brady and Wes Welker (see box, right).

The Pats took a 21-0 lead on three early TD passes by Brady. But Ryan Fitzpatrick led the Bills back within 24-17 by the time the third quarter wrapped up.

Bills running back Fred Jackson tied it at 24 with a 1-yard scoring run early in the fourth, and Drayton Florence returned a Brady interception — one of four on the day — 27 yards to paydirt 14 seconds later.

▶ Fred Jackson and the Bills stunned the Patriots.

Brady and Welker connected to tie it at 31 with 3:25 to play, but Buffalo simply marched it down the field after a touchback. Jackson appeared to score on a 39-yard reception with 1:43 to go, but he was ruled down at the 1.

That allowed the Bills to kill the clock and ultimately score the upset.

METRO

Some bright spots

16

Wes Welker set team records with 16 catches and 217 receiving yards yesterday. The Pats' loss, though, ruined his day. "What should be a great, fun day of breaking records and all of those things is totally opposite," he said.

1,327

Tom Brady's 387 passing yards gave him 1,327 on the season. That's the most by any NFL QB in any three-game span, ever.

7,077

Brady is on pace to pass for 7,077 yards this season. That would demolish the current record: Dan Marino's 5,804 yards in 1984.

In the NFL

That "Dream Team" down I-95 is falling apart.

Yesterday, the Eagles lost the game (29-16 to the Giants) and their star player (QB Mike Vick, to a broken non-throwing hand). No word yet on his return.

Pesky O's on deck for Boston

The Red Sox's 2011 season has come down to a series at Baltimore.

The Sox have won nine of 15 against the Orioles this year, but dropped three of four to them last week.

The climactic three-game set, starting tonight, features a trio of 7:05 p.m. start times.

Josh Beckett (13-6, 2.70 ERA) is scheduled to take the mound in the opener against the O's Tommy Hunter (4-4, 4.86). METRO

Red Sox salvage a split vs. Yanks

Wild-card lead slips to one game ◐ But it could be worse ◐ The race could be tied with three left to play

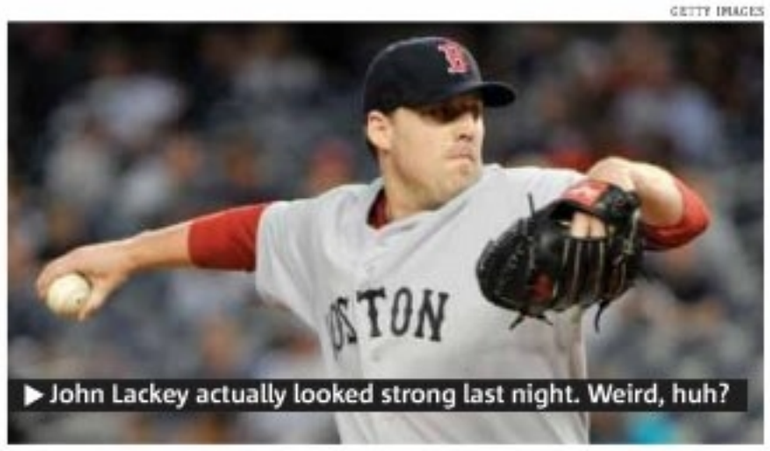
GETTY IMAGES



▶ John Lackey actually looked strong last night. Weird, huh?

Just when you thought the end of the Red Sox's 2011 regular season couldn't get any more tense, it did.

Boston split a day-night doubleheader with the Yankees yesterday, and a Rays win against Toronto pulled Tampa Bay within one game in the chase for the AL's fourth playoff spot.

The Sox's magic number to clinch a playoff berth is now three. They still control their own destiny: If they win out in the regular season, the Rays cannot catch them. But if they lose once, all bets are off.

Jacoby Ellsbury hit a two-out, three-run homer off Scott Proctor in the top of the 14th inning last night to give the Red Sox a 7-4 lead. Felix Doubront preserved the win with a 1-2-3 save. METRO
